ABOUT HONORS CORE COURSES AND THE HONORS ADDENDUM

Most honors core courses use an honors addendum. Honors students are integrated into a non-honors classroom and follow an addendum to the standard course syllabus. This addendum modifies a select number of assignments and/or exams throughout the course to enhance your learning experience. Be sure to locate the honors addendum in the Course Materials section of Halo at the beginning of your course and identify the assignments that will include modifications or adjustments. It is the honors student's responsibility to approach the faculty member during week one of each honors course to review and discuss the honors addendum, as well as future collaboration. Students enrolled in an honors addendum course will have a green star next to the course title on their Halo account.

CUSTOM BUILD YOUR HONORS ACADEMIC EXPERIENCE

0 CREDITS | HON-110: Honors Symposium

The honors symposium takes place during the first year and builds upon the topics of ethics, service, leadership, research, cultural awareness and innovative thinking that are discussed in other first-year courses in the honors program. Students explore their respective industry, investigate and discuss local and global issues within that industry and brainstorm and propose solutions to practical problems experienced within the industry. This course further integrates professional development and guidance in helping to prepare students for a future career within their respective industries.

For upperclassmen and transfer students, see full course catalog for other HON course offerings. Substitutions available upon request.

28 CREDITS | Honors Coursework

After completing HUM-109HN, you will complete an additional 24 honors credits throughout your program of study. View our full list of Honors Coursework Options on the reverse page.

► 4 CREDITS | HUM-109HN: Knowledge and Technology in the Humanities

HONORS COURSEWORK OPTIONS

▶ HONORS-ONLY COURSES

Honors course sections are uniquely written and designed for the honors student population. Honors only courses are exclusive to members of the honors community and span a wide variety of disciplines.

▶ HONORS ADDENDUM COURSES

Choose from more than 260 courses that integrate an honors addendum. While honors students are integrated with non-honors students in the classroom, this addendum modifies the course's standard syllabus for honors students by substituting two to four honors assignments in place of currently required assignments. The honors addendum emphasizes critical thinking, application of knowledge and faculty-student collaboration.

▶ HONORS ENRICHMENT CONTRACTS

Collaborate with your faculty member to create an honors learning experience within a non-honors course. In addition to completing the standard course syllabus, the faculty and student will collaborate on defining a project or relevant experiential learning experience to be integrated within the course.

▶ EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING FOR HONORS CREDIT

Students can earn honors course credit by completing an internship, participating in research or through a professional service learning experience. Enroll in the corresponding honors course that supports these experiences to earn honors credit.

▶ GLOBAL STUDIES PORTFOLIO

Earn honors course credit through a short-term global studies program or mission experience coordinated by the Honors College or Global Studies Office. These programs focus on experiential learning, cultural immersion, history, literature, language proficiency and more in various countries around the globe.
